MY LORD THURSBY.

Ran Through Two or Three Fortunes. Now a County Charge.

Jamestown, N. D., May 21.—"Lord" Thurstby, a former high roller, good fellow and a great supporter of Senator Hansbrough, is now a county charge. A good temperance lesson, and, perhaps, a lesson on the inconsistency of men's friendship, may be learned from reading the story of his life in North Dakota. The former friends of Thurstby who profited by his proficiency are slow indeed to extend a helping hand to him in his hour of need.

Only a few years ago "Lord" Thurstby, along with Counts Majorbanks of royal lineage and noble birth, was one of the cattle kings of the Mouse River valley, with headquarters at Towner. Twelve or fifteen years ago Mr. Thurstby was in hard circumstances. He had run through a small fortune and was reduced to penury. Barefooted, ragged and disreputable, he one day received a notice that a wealthy relative in England had died and that, as an heir, there was at his disposal a considerable sum of money—forty or fifty thousand dollars.

He bought a ranch on the Mouse river, stocked it with full blooded cattle, opened a private bank in Towner, and lived the life of an English gentleman. His commodious cottage, situated in a picturesque spot on his ranch, was fitted up elegantly, with billiard room, art gallery and things like that.

A few years later his rapidly vanishing fortune was replenished once more by the opportune death of a rich relative. My lord Thurstby encircled the globe, made a collection of curios in Europe and the Orient; wore purple and fine linen every day; drank wine and smoked fancy priced cigars.

Seven or eight years ago he disposed of his property in Grand Forks, where he fared sumptuously and entertained lavishly. Thurstby is not an old man—he is just in the prime of life. But he is a pitiable example in all directions and an overweening desire to "cut a swell."

DISSENSION IN A CHURCH.

Over Manner of Conducting Sunday School—Pastor Assaulted.

Rochester, N. Y., May 21.—The Rev. John Kramer, formerly pastor of the Reformed Lutheran Church of Christ in this city, has had trouble with that congregation. Some weeks ago he provoked a controversy by conducting the Sunday school as a whole or in a sort of congregational manner. The trustees thought that it would be better to divide the school into classes, and so informed the pastor. The latter declined to do this, or at least refrained from making the suggested change, and the trustees finally demanded that the school be divided into classes. Still the pastor declined, and then the members of the board, of which Martin Shunts, Jr., was one, remained at the Sunday school services, and when the pastor started the ain O'Neill was a citizen of Prescott, an ex-mayor of the town, and as the monument will be a great ornament to the town, there is no doubt but what our people will subscribe most liberally. There are no heroes of the Spanish war who did more than did our departed fellow citizen, for he was struck down at the head of his company. He gave his life; no man can do more. The late Captain O'Neill was a practical printer and a professional newspaper man, and as such was known from coast to coast. Hence, it is right and proper that the craft should take a hand in honoring his memory by contributing to the monument fund. The leading city dailies to whose columns he was a contributor, should pause long enough in the heat of their daily struggle for supremacy to remember he departed hero with a fitting contribution to the monument which is not only to his memory, but to those of the gallant Rough Riders who fell with him. O'Neill was the great champion of the poor through the press and from the rostrum. He was energetic, fearless and brilliant—a man whom all Arizona has just cause to remember with pride as one of her most distinguished sons. He was identified with our every interest, and had been spared would have done as much for the development of Arizona as any man who ever lived within her borders. Then, shall we forget our noble friend so soon? If every man in Arizona who regarded O'Neill as a friend, and who would have expended more than that for him at any time, would give just one dollar to the fund, there would be ample money to build a fitting monument. Those who are able should give more, and his friends and admirers all over the United States should contribute a little. The various copper companies of Arizona should contribute the copper from which to construct the monument, so that it be made from the native metal of the territory the dead hero loved so well. In a few days the corresponding secretary of the association will write to the various copper companies about this matter. Now let us all pull together for this monument; for there is now a starter of about $500. Those having funds should turn them over to Father Queta of Prescott, treasurer of the association. The board of supervisors of this county has donated ground on the public plaza for the monument. The city of Prescott will probably make a suitable donation—Prescott Courier.

... WHY? ...

Why is it you are having these various sales with prices so much lower than their usual value? This question has been repeatedly asked us. As stated in our announcements, we are about to take stock, and stock converted into money is much more readily counted. Again, buying as we do, for two of the largest dry goods establishments in Arizona enables us to secure large quantities of desirable goods at a smaller figure than ordinarily quoted. These goods we are now offering you at extremely low figures.

FOR TODAY'S SELLING.

White goods in endless variety, at prices, as quoted in our last announcement.

A thoroughly shrunk Duck Skirt, made by the best of makers. We have been complimented time and again upon its many good qualities. The price is $2.

Our Infants' Department, replete with all the little necessities for the darling ones. New and pretty slips and dresses. Caps and bonnets, white and colored, must be seen to be appreciated. Flannel skirts and muslin underwear for the misses.

SUMMER UNDERWEAR FOR WOMEN AND MEN.

A most complete assortment of gauze and lisle vests and knitted drawers is here. There is not a reasonable underwear want that cannot be filled from this stock, economically filled, too.
